The Moon

The moon travels around the Earth. It takes almost one month for the moon to get all the way around the Earth. The moon does not make its own light. We can see the moon at night because the sun's light reflects off of it. It looks like the moon changes shape in the sky because of the way the sun's light shines on it. These different shapes are called the moon phases. Take a look at the moon each night and watch it change.
